the Diplomacy (Allan Calhamer's game) supplement of the Sunday Western Star-Post-Free Press, Vol 7, No 14,
November 4, 1979

DIPPY is published by the Great Western Publishing Co & Whalebone Corset Works Unc, a.k.a. Jim Benes, 417 S Stough St, Hinsdale, Ill 60521. Game fee is $5 plus a subscription to this rag, which goes at the rate of 5 issues per dollar.

PUBLIC SERVICE ANNOUNCEMENT: NORTHERN ILLINOIS PEOPLE! Plans are underway to form a Northern Ill. Diplomacy Association, the purpose of which will be to hold a monthly face-to-face game (or games) and to keep the local Diplomacy public aware of this, through zines and word of mouth.

Given sufficient numbers of people willing to host a game, that responsibility would not weight on heavily on any one person.

If you are interested, contact either: Dwayne Shreve, 3734 N Pine Grove #202, Chicago 60613 or Eric Ozog, 1526 N Lawler, Chicago 60651. Please include: 1. any names, addresses and phone numbers of others interested, 2. whether you would be willing to host a game and how often, 3. whether you would be available for impromptu games, and 4.
your name, address and phone number.

JACK FROST is acting as a guest GM in John Michalski's THE NEWBRUTUS BULLETIN, and he's looking for players so he can run another contest. Game fee is $4. For further information, contact Jack at RRL, Box 138B, Lockport, Ill 60441.

MARK MAY asks whether DIPLOMACY WORLD has folded. To our knowledge, Mark, they have not. Seems we received an edition of that publication, oh, two or three weeks ago.
But, does anyone out there have any firm knowledge to offer about DW?

HALLOWEEN NIGHTMARE FOR KING

ON A PERSONAL NOTE: I'd like to take this opportunity to express my appreciation to members of the STAR family for their concern and sympathy at the death of my father.

GAIL THE BEST WIZARD GAME REVIEW: WIZARD'S QUEST

By Zoltan Florenzi

Gail Gorski marched her forces through the secret tunnel, beat off the defending Orcs, and then on the strength of a card permitting her a second attack, marched into the adjacent forest beat the vile creatures again, and won this first contest of WIZARD'S QUEST.

She defeated Jim Benes who came within inches of winning, and her husband Ron, who never was much of a threat during the game.

WIZARD'S QUEST is played on a map of a country divided into 44 different areas. The object is to capture three treasures which are placed in various locations at the start of the game. As each player's forces march to their destinations and fight with the aid of a Hero or a Sorcerer, Orcs pop up faster than weeds and a Dragon drops down to line on the player's forces. Throw in the magic that allows one player to move another's objective as he's about to capture it, and you have the makings of a rich, exciting game.

QUOTABLE QUOTES: "The name is not meant so much as an attack on the Kennedys, but on the anti-political 'Me Generation,' that followed their assassinations. We're an anti-apathy band."—Jello Biafra, who says he is not running for mayor of San Francisco to gain publicity for his punk rock group, "Dead Kennedys."...

FIVE YEARS AGO IN THE STAR, Medical Editor Kardiak A Rest reported EXCLUSIVELY that a story received at the STAR's offices was a phony and a fraud. The story, heralding research being done in Boston on forestalling old age, was about one Dr Alan Peters, who reputedly had discovered this "Fountain of Youth." But calls by the STAR to the Massachusetts AMA revealed that there was no such reputable doctor on their rolls. However, the AMA did report it knew of a fake Dr Alan Peters, who was in the habit of bilking rich old widows out of thousands of dollars for treatments that would allegedly arrest the disintegration of cells and thereby prevent old age. The Boston bunko squad had traced the quack to an outfit in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and an arrest was said to be imminent...

The STAR also reported on the secret comings-and-goings of Joe Antosiak, familiar figure in stories about international espionage. Joe, it seems, was about to spend four days "in Atlanta," visiting his "sister." When reminded that he has no relatives in Atlanta by the STAR, Joe said he would be visiting an "older woman." But the STAR reported that instead of embarking for Georgia, Antosiak was greeted at O'Hare by an attractive woman and that the two of them spent two days undercover in Cuba. We must wonder now whether Joe, in his peaceful, married state, now misses his intrigues of past years...

HINSDALE, Oct 31-

Much to his consternation and dismay, Rich King learned Wednesday that ~~his~~ neither himself nor his lovely wife Marge would be home this evening to greet ~~MX~~ Halloween Trick-or-Treaters. And, King had purchased a full crate of suckers to distribute to the happy children.

This led King to devise a plan for distribution of the goodies...merely leave the crate out open on his front stoop...but without sign or anything.

Later in the day, when King talked with his friend and sidekick Jim Benes and explained what he'd done, Benes asked the obvious, "If you were the father of a little trick-or-treater, would you want him or her taking candy from a box left open on somebody's porch?"

King answered the obvious, "No," and asked Benes to remove the box from his porch.

Benes, upon walking to the King home, was besieged by angry children dressed in all manner of Halloween attire.

One 6 year old, dressed like the Alien, said "The guy who lives here is some jerk," as he soaped up King's front window. "How do we know this stuff isn't tainted?"

Another youngster, dressed like the Pope asked whether King was trying to hide from his responsibility to the youth of America as he emptied a gas can on the King roof.

NICK CROWBAR, PRIVATE DICK

"THE KAH-KAH CAPER"

by Mickey Spalleen

PART TEN

Nick got dressed as he and Mrs X talked. She told him all about Eric, and how Mr X had hired him to perform certain "services" for the old man. She didn't think Eric had anything to do with his missing collar, since he was drawing a thousand a week for his "services." For appearances sake, Eric drove the car.

"How did you get tied up with such an old geezer?" Nick asked.

Mrs X blushed. She said she didn't want to unveil her tainted past. Then she broke down and sobbed. Nick held her close as her sagging breasts brushed against his chest. Nick just said, "Keep drying. It's good for you. I don't mind." Nick kept looking down her blouse.

Finally, she told him she was once hired, just like Eric, to perform "services" for the old man. When he changed his er, tune, she tried to blackmail him for jillions, threatening to expose his "preferences" to the press. That's when the old guy asked her to marry him. He'd keep her in the style to which she was accustomed as long as she kept her mouth shut. When he kicked the bucket, she'd get half of it, as long as she kept her mouth shut.

"What about the broken ~~dog~~ pug?" Nick asked.

"He bashed me once, when he was awake. That's after he found out about Kah-Kah. He literally loved that dog."

Nick was getting sick again.

Dear Sir:

This is to advise you that your recent serial "The Kah-Kah Caper" by Mickey Spalleen has been nominated, in the literature category, for a "Puke-it-sir" Prize.

You will be notified as to time and place of award ceremonies should it be selected as the winner of the $50,000 debt to society each finalist incurs.

Thank you,

MORE ON LIFESTYLE RADIO

Things maybe looking up at WCFL radio...then again...maybe not.

Station personnel are working longer hours than before, up to 15-17 hours a day is the rule, not the exception. Mutual-CFL now has three (count 'em) part-time stringers added to their massive news department. That's three reporters added to the none they already had.

Meanwhile...a source close to the Amway owned station says chances are one in five that many persons in production and management may be among the unemployed by the next ratings book release.

There is also the problem of guests being on within one to two hours of each other (on the air). This is caused by a lack of "teamwork" between the news department and (See "LIFESTYLE," page 3)

PETERS' IDEA COULD CHANGE TBA

FOR THE BETTER!

MURPHY'S LAW COULD REVOLUTIONIZE TBA!
Urgent to the STAR

By A Penn Name

RENO, NEV., Nov 1--Nevada Desert Rider Coach Fireball Murphy today said that he would allow center Mickey Rumball-Petre to attempt no more than 20 free throws in any game, effective immediately.

At a jammed press conference at Snake-Eyes Palace, Murphy told reporters that Rumball-Petre had complained that the "pun-nelling and hacking" was taking its toll on his body and that the welts and marks at game's end weren't worth the price he had to pay for success. This plan, if approved, could become known as "Murphy's Law," means that after the big man attempts his 20th foul shot, he would then leave the game at the next dead ball. Murphy said he realized that this would put a strain on his coaching powers and would mean more center time for either Chris McHearson or rookie Jack Biondilillo, both of whom are far lesser boardsmen than Rumball-Petre.

Approval should become final after Commissioner James "Theo" Benes reviews the proposal.

In Denver, TBA Commissioner Benes told the STAR, "The plan is strictly voluntary, so Murphy doesn't need my approval. But I salute him. It's something that's long been needed in the TBA, a voluntary restraint on the drawing of fouls. Let me put it this way: Any TBA owner who wouldn't go along with such a plan for his own team is a bum!"

TBA ROUNDUP:

WHITEHORSE, Oct 26--The 98ers played to the best of their ability tonight, but that was 25 points less than that of Nevada. The Desert Riders won handily, 124-99, sending a capacity "Rowdy Night" crowd home early as the contest was over by the mid 3rd quarter. Nevada's Chris McHearson topped all scorers with 27.

BOLINGBROOK, Oct 28--D.C. (DC) Voigt has become part owner of the Blue Jays to relieve W.C. (WC) Voigt from the hassles of running the team on a day to day basis. Bolingbrook promptly lost to Naperville 11-98. (PTG)
